

Document Binding

We offer four styles of document binding and each offers a myriad of colours to choose from.

Plastic Comb is the most economical binding option, with the added benefit of being able to add or remove pages from the completed document, it's a popular choice.

Wiro is a rugged and attractive option for those all important business presentations.

Fastback binding uses a heat process to bond glue to your printed pages, so it is not possible to add or remove pages once the document has been bound.

Perfectback utilises the same principals as Fastback with the addition of a wrap-around* cover to give a stylish book-like finish.

Encapsulation & Lamination

Encapsulation totally seals the page leaving a small (usually 3-5mm) clear border.

Encapsulation produces a water tight seal and increases the stiffness of the finished page.

Lamination simply applies a very thin plastic coating to the front and back of the page without increasing the stiffness. Lamination is available in both a gloss and matt finish, adding that final touch of professionalism to report covers, postcards, business cards, or any number of other items. Lamination does not produce a water tight seal.
